North Vietnam - USSR: Hanoi has sent a high-level delegation to Moscow to attend the celebration of the 47th anniversary of the Russian Revolution.

The group, headed by Premier Pham Van Dong, will probably urge the new Soviet leaders to adopt a more vigorous policy of political and propaganda support for Hanoi's objectives in Southeast Asia. Last year no high-level North Vietnamese officials attended the November celebrations in Moscow.

*Hanoi's willingness to send such a delegation to Moscow at this time suggests that the Chinese and Soviets may plan to use the anniversary celebration for consultations on the question of a new international Communist conference.

In a 2 November joint communiqué with an Austrian Communist delegation, Moscow, for the first time since Khrushchev's ouster, stressed the need for a preparatory meeting, although no date was specified. [redacted]

NOTES

Canada: [Opposition leader Diefenbaker has indicated he intends to do everything in his power to block approval of a parliamentary committee's recommendation for the replacement of the Union Jack as Canada's national ensign by a distinctive flag featuring the maple leaf. Some influential members of Diefenbaker's own party, however, may be opposed to forcing a showdown on this emotional and divisive issue. Although a prolonged and bitter debate on the flag question appears to be in prospect, Prime Minister Pearson's advisers presently feel that he will be able to get by until next spring without having to call an election.]
